

All Brass Well Cylinders
Our Own Make
S. A. MACHINE &
SUPPLY CO.
Corpus Christi, Texas.

CORPUS CHRISTI CALLER

AND DAILY HERALD

VOLUME 18.

MASS MEETING OF CITIZENS THIS AFTERNOON AT COUNCIL CHAMBER

Advertising Campaign, Municipal Auditorium Project Will Be Reported By Special Committees

IT IS URGED THAT THE CONFERENCE BE LARGELY ATTENDED

AMERICA NEVER SO PROSPEROUS AS AT PRESENT

REPORTS FROM THE TWELVE FEDERAL RESERVE DISTRICTS SHOW THAT EVERY LINE OF BUSINESS ENDEAVOR IS REAPING GOLDEN HARVEST.

TEXAS GETTING ITS SHARE

Summary of Conditions in Dallas District Shows Remarkable Increase in Oil and Lumber Industry—Aviation Man Appointed Director of Class "C" Banks.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Business conditions throughout the entire country are rapidly improving according to monthly reports made from twelve Federal Reserve districts. The railroad district reports were particularly favorable, both of which are reported as unusually active with increased volume which promises to be permanent.

Oil companies reported marked prosperity in practically every state in industry. While the Kansas City report said that profits were still before the money of the district had been realized, business conditions were satisfactory. Other districts made similar optimistic reports.

William F. Baileys of Austin, Texas, was today appointed director, Class C, of government director. Dallas referee director.

DOYLE SEEKING U.S. SOLDIERS FOR GULF COAST EXPOSITION

LEAVES THIS MORNING FOR BROWNSVILLE TO SECURE PERMISSION OF COLONEL BLOCKSON

MACHINE GUN EXHIBITION

The machine gun section of the Third United States Cavalry, now stationed at Fort Brown, Brownsville, will probably be brought to Corpus Christi for the Gulf Coast Exposition, January 19, 20, 21 and 22. The Army soldiers are anxious to be here for the event and it is deemed probable that if the approval of the authorities is secured that arrangements will be made to bring them here. Nine machine guns will be brought by the men should the trip be authorized, and exhibitions will be given or shooting at targets to be placed in the city.

G. C. Krebs, who yesterday returned from Brownsville advised with Major Miller, President Judge of the Exposition, and others, and the arrangement was that the invitation would be issued and that the authorities be urged to allow the troops to spend the four days here. That their presence and machine-gun exhibition would be a big card for the exposition is admitted.

So strong was the desire that the boys be brought here that W. J. Doyle was commissioned to go to Brownsville and confer with Colonel A. P. Blockson, in charge of the Third Cavalry. Mr. Doyle leaves here this morning for the conference and will probably return on the night train. He will also confer with a number of business men of Brownsville in an effort to impress plenty of money into the plan to bring the soldiers here for the exposition.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 5.—Atlanta voters today decided against the recall of the police commissioners.

ADULTERATION OF COTTON SEED MEAL

FEED CONTROL BOARD AND MILL MEN LOCK HORNS OVER THE MATTER

CORPUS CHRISTI, STATION, Jan. 5.—Officers of the feed control service, administered from the experiment station of the A. M. College, and leading oil and mill operators of Texas have been engaged in a friendly controversy over the regulations governing the sale of cotton seed meal. Much cotton seed meal that has failed to meet the requirements of the feed control service has been sold this year and where violations have been discovered legal steps to prevent the sale of this feed have been taken by the feed control officials. Millions contend that the standards for grade meal are too low and are asking that they be changed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—The feed control service, administered from the experiment station of the A. M. College, and leading oil and mill operators of Texas have been engaged in a friendly controversy over the regulations governing the sale of cotton seed meal. Much cotton seed meal that has failed to meet the requirements of the feed control service has been sold this year and where violations have been discovered legal steps to prevent the sale of this feed have been taken by the feed control officials. Millions contend that the standards for grade meal are too low and are asking that they be changed.

MAIL TRAIN ROBBED NEAR SAN ANTONIO.

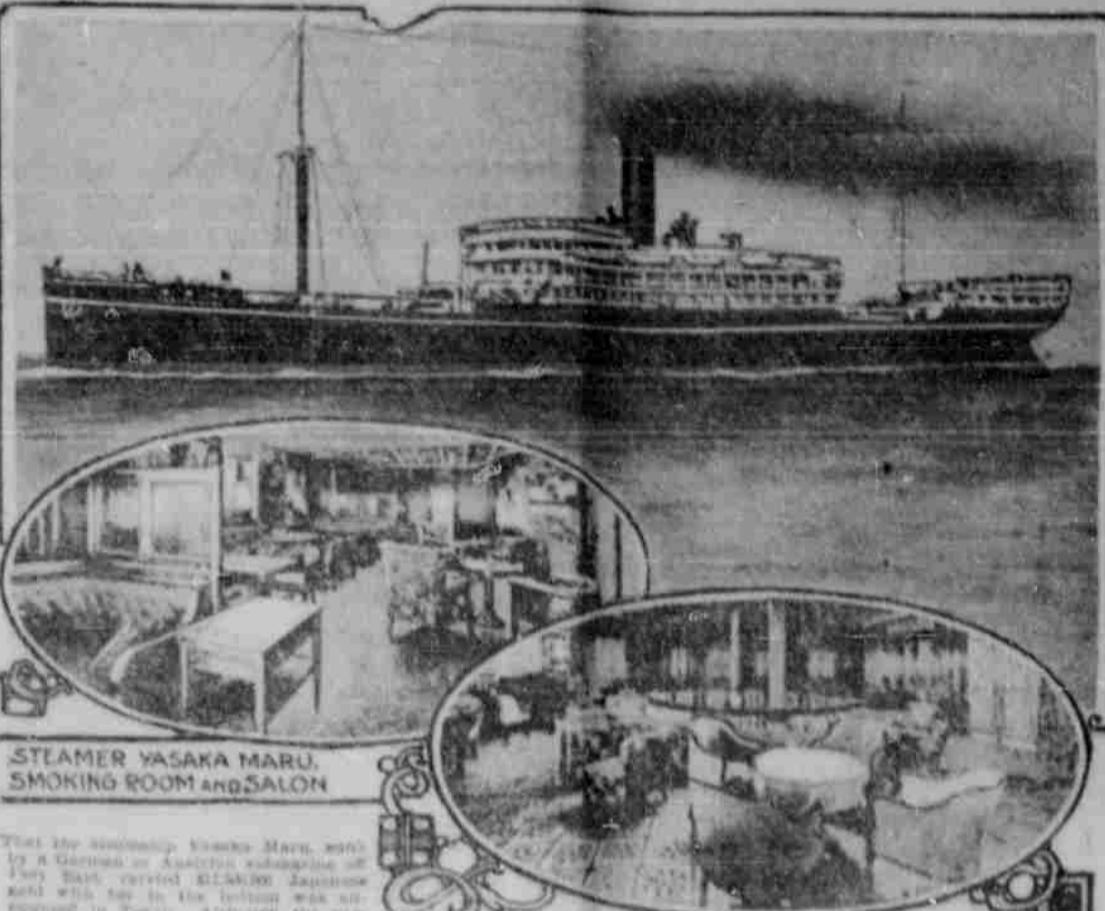

MANANTIA, Jan. 5.—The mail car on the westbound Southern Pacific mail express was robbed shortly after leaving here bound for a man who boarded the train here.

The robbery was discovered seventeen miles west of San Antonio when mail clerk, Morris Banks, was found in the box bound and gagged.

The amount of lost property is not known, though it is believed to have been large.

(Continued on Page 2.)

$12,500,000 IN GOLD WENT TO THE BOTTOM WHEN THE YASAKA MARU WAS TORPEDOED.

That the steamer Yasaka Maru, owned by a German as Japanese vessel, was sunk by a torpedo at Port Royal, Georgia, and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan. The survivors are being treated in the hospital.

YASAKA MARU, Jan. 5.—The steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound for Japan, was torpedoed and sank in forty-five minutes, the passengers scattered, with much difficulty, into life boats before the steamer turned turtle and disappeared from view. A life boat was lowered and saved all who were British subjects. W. J. Jones, who was one of the survivors, was born in Corpus Christi. His father was a native of Corpus Christi, and his mother is a native of Corpus Christi. The survivors, numbering 120, were rescued by the steamer Yasaka Maru, which was bound